

Hello Everyone!!

Is there anyone out there that would love to adopt this darling old boy that was found wandering the streets?

We do know his name is JACK and we do know he is 13 years old!!

He is micro chipped but no one has come forward for him, he was micro chipped way outside of the area he was found!!

He is in a kennel at the moment that are looking after him, they have found by assessing him with other dogs that he isn't good around them, it could be the stress of being in a kennel with dogs all around him, so maybe in a loving home he may be different.

He is very gentle with all the staff and volunteers that work at the kennels, he is also good around all members of the public, but because of his age he is getting over looked.

He loves to curl up in his bed and has been given a duvet to soften his body.

Some one has loved this boy as he is in really good health and is quite chubby...he does love his food!!

If you can offer him a home I would love you to get in touch with me,
